ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a digital electronic method for increasing the calculation accuracy in non-linear functions and a system for performing the method, wherein an input format has a strictly defined word but the fixed point may be at different locations, the 5   values are so processed that the accuracy of the calculations and also the calculation speed are substantially increased.